"I've worn almost every commercially available fire line pack produced. They all held water bottles, some food, a fire shelter, and had space for a little gear. Unfortunately, they all lacked one thing: comfort. So, I decided to build my own. After using my own pack for many years, I ran into StatPacks. They have mission-centered packs designed with ergonomics and comfort. The SpotFire fits as comfortably as my broken-in recreational pack and provides all the movement needed when building line.

I recently purchased one of your Golden Hour StatPacks, and boy, can I tell you that it was well worth it. I have used many gear bags but I believe I have found the one. I get all kinds of comments when people see my pack. I use my Golden Hour for my personal jump bag. As a Flight Respiratory Therapist, I find that there are some things that I just don't want to bust open the official jump bags for, so I keep everything I might need close at hand in my Golden Hour. Great construction. Really comfortable. Plenty of room. Thanks for making a strong product.

"I am a medic at a High Adventure Boy Scout Camp in Greenwater, Washington, near Mt. Rainier. In my position as medic and with my volunteer work as a firefighter, I am frequently called upon to respond to calls many miles from base camp or from the nearest trail head or road. My fellow medics and I have long been searching for a backpack style jump kit that we could use in place of traditional side carry bags, both in remote back country settings, and front country responses to calls such as MVAs. After seeing the new Perfusion and Backup carryalls, we believe that we have found a pack worth buying."

"I just got my order of the drop leg pouch (Traverse). Very nice job with this product. This pouch is very well made and exceeds my hopes. I will recommend this product to others and show it off. Keep up the good work."

"I have hiked many miles wearing the Golden Hour on many back-country rescues. It is so nice to have my hands free to assist the patient, and to carry our equipment so easily. Its comfort is unsurpassed.

Working in ERs, on ambulance crews, and in helicopters, I've seen just about every kind of bag there is. I must say StatPacks have been the best."

"As an instructor, I have many different styles of packs to choose from. StatPacks have been the most beneficial in learning situations with my students. StatPacks have helped me to teach early on the importance of personal safety and efficiency. I've enjoyed the ease and convenience of having my equipment so mobile and accessible. Now, all the students in my whole Paramedic Program are outfitted with the Load n' Go. They are a definite asset."

"The packs (LoadN'Go with Modules) have been great and are definitely rugged enough to with stand the abuse that my guys put them through. I once again want to say thank you so very much."

"We have our packs (Perfusion and Tital Volume) and have put them into place. Everyone on the committee was very pleased with the packs. The backpack is lighter and more manageable for the nurses, too. Everything fit perfectly. Being able to remove the modules works great with our pharmacy exchange system as well as the overall functionality of the kit. Thank you for staying in communication with us and for making a great product."

"I have found the LoadN'Go very adaptable and very easy to work with. When faced with a bad call, it is comfortable and it leaves your hands free for hands on. Equipment can be seen quite clearly and is accessible. The layout suits my needs as I am working every day or night with it."

"The Perfusion, Intubation, Drug and IV Modules are performing well. The crews love them (they feel modern and look sharp). I have been working with one of our medical directors who is looking to add these items to the D-MAT team from the region. I have given him some info and he likes your products durability more than the other option."

"I am on the NEET (National Equipment Evaluation Team) and have forwarded a report to the corporate level supporting these products for special events. We are forming a NFL strike team to operate at future superbows and will be using your products – all good things."
